The purpose of this section is to analyze the operations required for the final circuit stage, i.e. the stage in which the circuit is used, which is commonly referred to as the "realization" of the circuit. In a conventional control phase as shown in FIG. 2, a current I10 is generated by a current source IA, this current I10 is mirrored through a mirror circuit B1 through a mirror circuit B2 to a mirror node AMP. The mirror current I10 also has a mirror loop having a second current source IB1, a first transistor T1, a second transistor T2 and a third transistor T3. Through the Vdd/Vss switching circuit, the mirror node AMP can be connected to the target voltage Vpp. However, it should be noted that the electrical properties of the transistor T1 may vary from the transistor T2. The transistor T1 and T2 have different threshold voltages. This bff6bb2d33
